Interfaith Offering Financial Management Classes

The Woodlands, TX (Monday, December 7, 2009) With so many families and individuals struggling with personal finances, Interfaith of The Woodlands would like to help families and individuals learn how to control their spending by offering Dave Ramsey's Financial Peace University financial management classes beginning January 21, 2010.

"The financial management course is an informative and entertaining 13-week video series designed to teach families effective, time-proven principles to better manage their finances," said Kathy Rifaat, Programs and Services Director for Interfaith of The Woodlands.

The course presented by The Woodlands resident Terry Loughridge will facilitate the course on several principles including: eliminating debt, creating budgets, techniques of saving, investing for retirement, and managing real estate.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for people of all income levels to organize and gain control of their finances," shared Dr. Ann Snyder, President and CEO. "Interfaith is very excited to offer this educational course to help residents in our community."

Classes will be held at Interfaith of The Woodlands on Mondays from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. for the following 13 weeks, excluding March 15th for Spring Break.

All participants will be required to purchase a $99.00 workbook kit with scholarships available.
